Housing Australia

Market commentary

The Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) left the cash rate unchanged at 4.35% on 5 December 2023 (Chart 1). In reaching the decision, the RBA noted that information since the last RBA meeting was “limited” but “overall, measures of inflation expectations remain consistent with the inflation target.” Current pricing in the cash futures market indicates no further increases in the cash rate are expected and the market is pricing a chance the RBA may reduce the cash rate in the second half of 2024. (Chart 2).

Bond yields have decreased from the prior month following softer domestic economic data. Inflation has moderated, which was primarily due to a decline in fuel prices. Monthly CPI rose 4.9% year-on-year in October 2023, which was below expectations of 5.2%. Economic growth has been weak. 3Q GDP was 0.2% and 2.1% compared to the prior quarter and year respectively. The RBA indicated that significant uncertainties remain, and reiterated that their focus will be on the data and global economic developments.

Long term bond yields, which determine Housing Australia's cost of funding and the interest rates we can offer the community housing sector have decreased month-on-month (Chart 3). The 10-year Government bond yield is currently 4.25%. As of 7 December 2023, we estimate Housing Australia's 10-year cost of borrowing to be 4.70%. The Housing Australia premium is approximately 45 basis points above the 10-year Government Bond yield.

The following table shows the estimated cost of long-term fixed and floating rate funding for Housing Australia as of 7 December 2023. The interest rates that Housing Australia can offer registered Community Housing Providers (CHPs) for lending to established properties typically ranges from 0.65% to 1.00% above Housing Australia's funding cost (excluding establishment fees) depending on the nature and terms of the loan. Higher margins apply for construction lending.

Housing Australia's estimated AHBA cost of funds	10 years	12 years	15 years
Fixed rate cost of funds	4.70%	4.79%	5.00%
Floating rate cost of funds (3M BBSW plus)	0.32%	0.35%	0.49%
3-month BBSW	4.35%	4.35%	4.35%

CHPs interested in AHBA finance should speak to their Housing Australia Relationship Manager for information on the relevant margin applicable to their project.
